

MR. SHERMAN ARNIS CANDIDATE FOR OFFICE OF TREASURER

Prominent Business Man Announces His Candidacy For Important City Office—Is Well Qualified For the Duties.

Mr. Sherman Arn, prominent local real estate man, announces himself as a candidate for the office of City Collector and Treasurer at the November election.

Mr. Arn is well qualified for the duties of this office, one of the most important in the administration of city affairs. He is a native Maysvillian, extensively interested in city property and through his experience in real estate, is probably as well acquainted with the property of Maysville and its values as any other man in the city.

He has always been progressive in his plans for a better Maysville and with associates has built a number of attractive new homes recently in the East End, showing his belief in the city. While a member of City Council from the Sixth ward, he was always found to be a warm supporter of progressive ideas and had much to do with the progressive steps taken by the city at that time.

If elected to this office, Mr. Arn will prove a most efficient and painstaking official.

Don't forget public sale of residence of late Edward Myall on premises Saturday, September 24th, at 2 p. m. A chance to buy a desirable and well located home.

LOCAL BALL CLUB ASKS GO AT STATE CHAMPIONSHIP

Maysville Ball Club Denies Winchester Hustler's Title to State Semi-Pro Championship and Suggests Three-Game Decision.

When the Winchester Hustlers made their claim for the Kentucky semi-pro championship we wonder if they knew Maysville was in the state. If they did not know that and mips are scarce in Winchester it might be well for them to look us up in order that they may have a clear title to that championship and in the way of an introduction we wish to remind them that we are the same Maysville team that beat Cynthiana 9 to 4 on the day after Cynthiana defeated the Hustlers by a score of 7 to 6.

No doubt Charley Ellis, manager of the Hustlers, is very proud of his feat of taking two out of three games with the Lexington Reo's but that means nothing in our sweet life and with that in mind he has based his claim for the honors of the state. But is a team that has won an average of eighty per cent. of its games with the strongest in the Ohio Valley, Cincinnati and Central Kentucky to be ignored because we have not played the Reo's and the "would be champions" have?

Manager Reese is expecting an answer to his wire and letter sent to the Hustlers the forepart of the week containing this suggestion as a proposition. A three game series to be played and since Winchester draws good Saturday crowds the first game to come on Saturday at Winchester and the two teams come to Maysville to play the second game on the next day, Sunday. A third game, if necessary, a week later to be decided by the toss of a coin or else to be staged on neutral grounds possibly the Reo park in Lexington.

The string of victories by the local club includes games with Newport, Paris, Cynthiana, Alexandria, Germantown, Brooksville, Wiedeman of Newport, Ibold of Cincinnati, H. & H. of Cincinnati, as well as many others and if that record does not justify a counter-claim of Winchester's what sort of a record must be necessary?

Sunday Game With Covington K. of C. The Knights of Columbus, of Covington will be Sunday's attraction at the east end park, play to start at 2 o'clock. Several new faces will appear in the line-up. Valdeen of the old Portsmouth team who missed his train last week makes his debut at third base in Huffman's place who is laid up by a bad sprain of his ankle in last Sunday's game and Darnell now employed in construction work in this city and with a lot of baseball experience in the semi-pros around Cincinnati will fill out the outfield. The batteries will be Cooper and Monk with Napenberger and Gensler working for the K. of C.

LEWIS COUNTY STORE IS ROBBED.

The Vanceburg Sun says: Last Wednesday night a raid by some members of the order of Nover-sweats entered the grocery department of G. W. Stamper's store and extracted among other things three pieces of breakfast bacon, three Bologna sausages, three sacks of flour. A piece of cheese they wrapped up but forgot to take. They then went to the feed department where sugar is kept in 100 pound sacks and took two sacks. On Thursday the sugar was located under the old canning factory across the creek and recovered. Sheriff Bertram was asked to watch the factory Thursday night which he did, not knowing that the sugar had been removed, and to say he was mad when he found it out is stating it mildly. He is nursing a severe cold by reason of his experience.

HAD SOMETHING UP HIS SLEEVE.

Manchester, Ohio, Sept. 23.—Carlos Weaver, 32, of Lewis county, was fined $200 and costs in mayor's court here Saturday. Returning from the West Union fair he carried here a short time. In the sleeve of the coat a flask of moonshine was secured by a spring wire.

LESLIE ARTHUR TO BE BURIED HERE SATURDAY MORNING

Body of First Mason County Man To Fall In World War To Be Buried With Military Honors.

Notification was received at a late hour Thursday night that the body of Leslie H. Arthur was shipped from New York Thursday. The funeral will be held at 10 o'clock Saturday morning and it is thought that every Maysville business house that can spare its ex-service employees should do so.

The honor of being Mason county's first man killed in action belongs to this body. The local post of the American Legion has accepted the honor of his name. Therefore no member of the Legion can possibly fail to attend the funeral. But this is not a funeral of the Legion. Leslie was a county boy and every ex-service man therein should make a special effort to attend.

The military formation will form on Sutton street at 9:40 Saturday morning. Every man in Mason who wore a uniform is shirking duty if he does not attend.

The body of young Arthur is expected to arrive here Friday afternoon and will be taken to the home of his mother in East Second street from which place the body will be taken Saturday morning by the Legion members to the Mayslick cemetery.

MAY BE DOUBLE BURIAL.

The body of Ira Sidell, another Mayslick boy who was killed in service, is also expected Friday and should arrive, the burial at Mayslick Saturday morning will be a double burial, the first in the county.

MAYSICK TOBACCO MEETING.

Realizing that what is to the interest of the farmers is to their interest and wishing to show a full spirit of helpfulness and co-operation, all the merchants of Mayslick have agreed to close their places of business and join in the big tobacco meeting to be held at Mayslick Saturday. DAUGHTER OF SHOE KING SHOT BY WOMAN WHO KILLS HERSELF

Jealousy Thought To Be Motive For Shooting of Miss Mildred Hanan at Early Hour This Morning By Mrs. Grace Lawes in Brooklyn.

New York, Sept. 23. — Miss Mildred Hanan, 25, daughter of the late millionaire shoe manufacturer, was shot and wounded seriously early today by Mrs. Grace Lawes, San Francisco, who then committed suicide.

The shooting took place on Schermerhorn street, Brooklyn.

Miss Hanan, escorted by John S. Dorland, an importer, was walking across the street when Mrs. Lawes stepped up and fired three shots. She then shot herself in the head.

Police said the motive for the shooting was jealousy, but details of the case have not been cleared up.

Mrs. Lawes, who shot herself, fell headlong into an area way, where her body was found by police.

Dorland ran to Miss Hanan's assistance, and when a patrolman ran up he found the man and woman sitting side by side on the doorstep.

Miss Hanan was rushed to the Long Island College Hospital, where surgeons said her condition was serious.

DOLLARS FOR FREEDOM, NOT A CENT FOR TRIBUTE!

There can be no doubt about it whatever: the United States is the greatest republic on the face of the globe and its citizens enjoy a greater degree of freedom than other nations.

But there is oppression in several forms that makes it hard for the average man to enjoy his full measure of freedom.

Whether we realize it or not, we are all subjects of, and pay tribute to, His Tyrannical Majesty, Dollar Bill. We work eight, ten or twelve hours a day to earn a few dollars, which we immediately spend on living and enjoyment, and most of us are always bewailing our inability to overthrow the power which has kept up subjected all these years, writes Sugarman's Indicator.

All our complaining will avail us nothing, if we have not the will to help ourselves. If we have this will power, and ever a limited amount of foresight, there is an opportunity offering itself to each and every one of us to ferment a revolution, and overthrow our oppressor. Freedom from financial worry can only be obtained through systematic savings and investments, but such a campaign does not mean that you must suffer and endure hardships.

Some people are prejudiced against investments that partake of the nature of speculation. They call it gambling and classify it with horse racing and other games of chance.

Well, you can make a gamble out of anything under the sun if the gambling fever is under your chest. In mediaeval times the priests made a gamble out of the church as in modern times the politicians make a gamble out of what they call statesmanship.

Watching the rise and fall of securities that represent the labor and wealth of a nation is no crime. Using your own judgment in buying and selling such securities is not a gamble but a lawful and legal transaction.

The big fortunes have been, and always will be, made by men who go into the market as legitimate investors. The people who give Wall Street a black eye are the natural-born gamblers, who turn everything they touch into a game of chance, and who would "shoot craps" with the angels if they ever got into Heaven by mistake!—Sugarman's Indicator Service, New York City.

STOCKMARKET ANALYSIS

Present Upward Turn Not "Tempest In a Tea Pot"—Paralleling Market Positions in Proof of It.

Sometimes the biggest mistakes are made by the very people who ought to know better. For example, the professional trader who is expert at selling short in the final stages of a decline has learned that after nearly every upturn he can always rely on enough reaction to get him out even on a short sale.

Continued success following a given method usually induces an erroneous belief in the infallibility of the method. Ever since the stockmarket started up on August 26th, last, many people have persisted in regarding this steady, general upward movement as merely a "tempest in a tea pot." The argument generally brought forward by such people is that no improvement in business conditions have taken place sufficient to warrant an upturn in the stock market.

The fallacy of such argument is apparent on the face of it. The official records show that for many years past the average stock has invariably been a purchase when conditions were bad. In proof of this, you will remember the panic of 1907 when, in spite of the disastrous business depression following the average stock was an excellent purchase at the $70 per share level, seeing that these same stocks advanced in 1909 to the $110 per share level! In the summer of 1916 this same stock average receded to the $87 per share level, advancing in 1917 to about $100 per share, receding the same year to about $80 or $89 per share, only to advance in the mid-summer months of 1912 to the $105 per share level.

Then a long decline started and in 1914, when the average business man and investor thought the "business world had almost come to an end"—after Germany's declaration of war—these same stocks on the Curb market, when the New York Stock Exchange was closed, fell to the $73 per share level. Times were very bad then, and perhaps that was why few investors bought. If they had only had the foresight and courage, or, let us say, "hindsight," many of these people might have loaded up with Bethlehem Steel and other stocks, which advanced in a most spectacular manner. Regardless of the numerous profit possibilities which might have attached to the purchase of particular stocks, this same general average heretofore mentioned advanced to approximately the $115 per share level late in 1916. When we say "general average" we mean the general average of the very same stocks, which in the fall months of 1914 sold as low as $75 per share. All of us remember the dark days in 1917 and early 1918 when business among were in doubt as to the effect of our entry into the war, and when business was relatively depressed. At that time the general stock average to which we have been referring receded to approximately $74 per share only to advance in 1919 to the $107 per share level.

Today this same stock average is selling at approximately $77 per share and there are some who say because this average has advanced a few points that we can expect a good-sized reaction. It is our belief, from an investment viewpoint, that we should look upwards and not downwards. Certainly, anyone who states that the stockmarket cannot improve simply because business has not as yet improved proportionately by this very statement admits that he is not well-poised on previous stockmarket fluctuations. The stockmarket invariably begins its advance fully six months ahead of marked improvement in the business situation. That is why so many well-informed investors are now wisely buying orders for the leading industrial stocks.

Equipment stocks should be among the first to reflect the entry of the railways into the market. Such stocks as American Locomotive, American Car & Foundry, Baldwin Locomotive, Haskell-Barker and Railway Steel Springs ought to be selling very much higher within a year's time. Steel stocks rank next in our list of investment recommendations. We also think well of such stocks as Republic Iron & Steel, Lackawanna Steel and Bethlehem Steel "B." Do not overlook Midvale Steel for a long-pull profit possibility.

Oil stocks ought to do better, especially such issues as Pan American, Sinclair Consolidated, Transcontinental Oil, Wight Oil and California Petroleum.

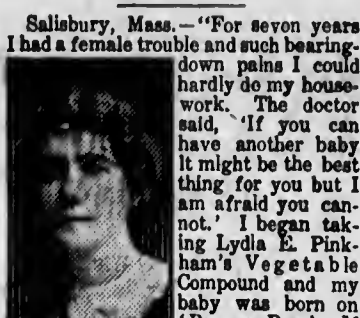

MORE PHYSICIANS IN RURAL DISTRICTS NEEDED.

Louisville — Too few physicians are locating in the rural districts and there is danger of over-specialization by doctors, the report of the council to the house of delegates of the Kentucky Medical Association declared in its annual report. The tendency of too many to settle in centers of population rather than in rural sections, the report said, constitutes a danger both to the medical profession and to the public.

BABY BORN ON PEACE DAY

After Mother Had Been Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Salisbury, Mass. — "For seven years I had a female trouble and such bearing-down pains I could hardly do my housework. The doctor said, 'If you can have another baby it might be the best thing for you but I am afraid you cannot.' I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and my baby was born on 'Peace Day.' If women would only take my Vegetable Compound they would have better health. I always recommend my Vegetable Compound to the neighbors."

Mrs. Tracy Patten, 2 Lincoln Ave., Salisbury, Massachusetts. The experience of maternity should not be approached without careful physical preparation, as it is impossible for a weak sickly wife to bring healthy children into the world. Therefore if a woman is suffering from a displacement, backache, inflammation, ulceration, bearing-down pains, headaches, nervousness or "the blues," she should profit by Mrs. Patten's experience, take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and be restored to health.

POULTRY PROFITS REQUIRE GOOD MANAGEMENT OF FLOCK.

Under present conditions with indications pointing toward an over-production of poultry products the most certain means of insuring profit from the farm flock is to adopt the most efficient methods of management, poultrymen say. One step toward greater efficiency in the producing flock which can be taken by every poultry raiser is to cull the pullets and remove those that show by their physical characteristics that they are not capable of sustained high egg production, according to J. H. Martin, in charge of the College of Agriculture poultry work.

A study of the head of each bird is an important part of the culling operation with pullets, Mr. Martin said. The ideal pullet head should be short and broad with a short, well-curved beak, a bright prominent eye and plenty of depth of skull above the eye. At the same time the head should be trim and neat and show no signs of beefiness or masculinity. Since early maturity in pullets is on indication of their laying tendencies, the birds that show early roosting of the comb should be favored in the culling while those that have dull heads after a majority of the birds of the same age have started laying usually should be discarded. In body types the pullets that will make heavy layers will have well-sprung ribs and a back that is straight and broad. They will carry their width well out in the rump instead of being wedge-shaped back of the hips. The back of the promising pullet will have the same characteristics desired in the fine beef steer, that is, broad and flat on top with deep sides giving the bird a somewhat rectangular shape.

Any pullets that show long narrow heads, commonly known as "crow-headedness," that are late maturing, have poor chest development and pinch back or that lack depth of body measured by the distance from the end of the keel bone to the top of the backbone should be discarded in the fall, the poultrymen say.

New York. — Does a man's estate have to keep on after his death paying for his matrimonial sins and mistakes? A Supreme Court judge of this city will decide that, in a suit which Mrs. Amelia Korker has brought for $20 a week alimony. The alimony, she points out, was to have been paid for the rest of her natural life; and as she is still alive, she doesn't see how the fact that her recent husband is not, can affect the issue.

Hand painted frocks will bloom in Manhattan this winter, with flowers and birds and cubistic designs spattered all over them. We have grown accustomed to batik, but batik is conventional and prosy compared to what we are about to have put before us, according to reports. Carlo Norway, the artist, will shortly arrive in New York from London and is going to devote himself and his art to making scenic effects on women's gowns throughout his entire stay here.

Granite from the heart of Manhattan Island—and that means the heart of Metropolitan New York—is now being used for the foundations of a five-story apartment house in the far-off Flatbush section of Brooklyn. This is a new development in building here and is a sign of the feverish haste shown in trying to catch up with the home shortage. One of the most important granite sources is the foundation excavation of the new co-operatively built Hotel Commonwealth at Fifty-sixth street and Broadway, where 200 tons of stone are now being removed daily. Fortunately for Brooklyn, it is going to be such a big hotel that it has to have a deep foundation and more apartment houses can go up in consequence. The granite from its excavation travels by motor truck half the length of Manhattan Island, crosses the Brooklyn Bridge and finally traverses five miles of Brooklyn before it reaches its destination in Flat bush.

Sheriff Knott of our county lost a bet on primary election day and in payment of it is forced to appear as the role of turnkey of the Ludlow Street jail in a current popular play. The stage hands and even his fellow actors declare that he has disproven forever, at rehearsals, the theory that a man can't act successfully the part of one of his own profession.

Ben bon boxes are the latest gun carriers. When Joseph Clancy and his pal fared forth on recent autumn evenings to hold up the genio public they always took along a young woman, pretty and fashionably dressed. She always carried a box of candy under her arm, which seemed quite fitting to an attractive girl with two escorts all to herself. The police later discovered that the reason there were so many hold-ups and no success at finding the guns wherewith the hold-ups were accomplished was that the girl hand the revolver carefully stowed underneath the top layer of candy and immediately upon its being made practical use of, it was tucked back there by her and taken jauntily away.

MONEY AND MARKETS.

Gains thus far made in industrial activity are real, and there is steady progress toward better business. With the exception of cotton, the crops are reasonably good, and their movement is being reflected in an improved banking position as farmers' obligations are liquidated. Cotton mills, the wool manufacture, and the boot and shoe industry are all holding their improvement of recent months. Although the steel industry is operating at about one-third of capacity, production of both pig iron and steel made fair gains in August. Orders are small but they have come from widely diversified sources, both geographically and as to consuming industries. Many other industries report slight betterment, and building activity is being remarkably well maintained throughout the country.

There is no justification for any world-wide rise in prices at this time. Producers of raw materials from the farmer to the metal mine operator have taken their losses. Those classes of labor which have accepted wage reductions in keeping with the changed economic situation have likewise taken their losses while other large classes of labor have done so indirectly as a result of unemployment. The conclusion is clear. Retail prices cannot go up without promptly curtailing buying. They must be reduced until they are in line with raw materials.

Because of uncertainty as to what the consumer can and will buy, retailers generally are ordering with great caution, while many wholesalers in turn are refraining from placing advance orders. The adoption, at any stage from manufacturer to consumer, of a policy directed toward generally higher prices to the consumer will not only curtail buying, but will result in slowing down the gratifying progress already made. Domestic conditions do not entirely govern. There are international conditions to be reckoned with. The only farsighted policy is the expansion of sales on a narrow margin of profit.

Periods of genuine, as contrasted with artificial prosperity, are never characterized by rapidly rising prices. Approximate price stabilization is their prerequisite. This follows inevitably from the fact that the first principle of sound business of any sort is operation on the basis of non-speculative profits. The country is yet struggling to recover from the ill effects of excessive speculation.

The United States sells more raw materials in the international market than any other single country. Hence, the purchasing power of a large part of the American consuming public is directly determined by prices of raw materials in that market. In so far as the purchasing power of American labor depends on the exportation of manufactured goods, it is likewise determined by the international market, since American goods produced at costs above those prevailing in other countries cannot be sold abroad.

Large classes of labor have taken their losses by severe wage cuts. Among those which have accepted them have been many skilled crafts which have seen that in the long run wages on the new basis will have a purchasing power equivalent to that when wages were higher.

Certain classes of labor contract unfavorably, however, with labor as a whole. The time is not far distant when not only that uncertain group known as the "general public" but those sections of it consisting of other classes of workers and farmers will have come to a realization that labor pays its own wages, which are ultimately measured, not in money, but in goods. The money wage only measures the estimated worth to other consumers of the goods produced by the wage earner. When any class of labor attempts to force its wages out of line with other wages and the price level, that group endeavors primarily to take advantage not of capital but of the other workers, who, in last analysis, must suffer as others gain.

If special labor groups refuse to accept reductions in keeping with the general trend of both wages and prices, the farmers, the makers of shoes and garments and all those classes which supply the necessities of life to these men for a time at least must give up in the form of unduly high prices a disproportionate share of the food or other goods which they produce in return for transportation, coal and other goods.

STEALS HORSE AT MANCHESTER; CAPTURED.

The Manchester Signal says: Homer Anderson, of New Boston, a youth of 17, Thursday took a horse valued at $150 from the stable of S. D. Malone, four miles east and rode it to Portsmouth, offering to sell for trade it before reaching there. He was detained by officers until Mr. Malone and Officer Sowers reached him. Mr. Malone rode the horse home and the marshal brought Anderson to this jail. When brought before a justice of the peace he entered a plea of guilty. He did not attempt to give bond and was sent to the county jail.

TOLEDO, SPAIN, THOUGHT OLDEST CITY IN EUROPE.

New York. — Toledo, Spain, is the oldest city in Europe, says the September Mentor Magazine. It was a city in prehistoric times. It was Toledo, "the uttermost corner of the earth," that sheltered the Jews in their flight from Nebuchadnezzar. Carthaginians, Romans, Goths, and Moors ruled it successively, adding something to its heritage of ages. Today the streets are mildly astir and the city at no time seems fully awake.

MUSICAL COMEDY HERE ON THURSDAY EVENING ONLY

Great San Francisco and New York Hit Comes To Washington Theater For Only One Performance.

"Sun-Kist" the musical comedy par excellence which had its birth in San Francisco, and which scored such a sensational triumph at the Globe Theater in New York last summer, will be presented here on Thursday evening, September 29th, for one night only by Fanchon and Marco who are sending it to this city direct from the theatrical metropolis. No musical play in recent years has attracted the great interest and attention that has been directed toward "Sun-Kist" since it made its bid for New York approbation a few months ago. Created on the Pacific Coast, contrary to all theatrical precedent, it was routed East and everywhere accorded the highest tribute. As a result of its New York engagement it has been materially strengthened, until today it ranks far and above most of the musical comedy productions of the season.

"Sun-Kist" is a revue of the unusual type. In some respects it is a travesty on movieland, but aside from its comedy plot, there are singing and dancing numbers in profusion, the whole being a kaleidoscopic ensemble of tuneful melodies, terpsichore and clean cut comedy, portrayed by a company of unusual merit. Fanchon and Marco who wrote the music and lyrics, sponsor the entire production, which had been produced under their personal supervision.

Prominently features in the exceptional cast will be found Don Barclay for two seasons principal comedian with Ziegfeld Folies, Dell Chain who has been called one of the greatest light comedians of today, Si Layman and Helen Kling, dancers par excellence, Charlotte Woodruff, possessed of a most phenomenal coloratura soprano voice, Hyman Meyer, Cornish Beck (the original Porro) Daisy DeWitte, Lucia Vorvera, Helen Kennedy, Evelyn Gerald, Laurena Hall, and others, and the original beauty chorus of California Sun-Kist Girls who set all New York to talking because of their beauty, shapeliness and ability. "Sun-Kist" is in two acts and fourteen scenes. It has been unanimously praised by public and critics wherever it has been presented and promises to be one of the big theatrical events of the season.
